Excell IT Joins the Toronto Construction Association

Mississauga, ON — September 21, 2009 — Excell IT Inc. today announced their membership in the Toronto Construction Association. This will enable Excell IT to work closely with the TCA and its members to ensure they have an opportunity to take advantage of the latest enhancements in technology. “We’re excited to be a member of the TCA because a number our customers are already in the construction industry and we’ve helped them overcome many technical hurdles.” says Jim Hingley, President of Excell IT Inc.

Focused on small to medium sized companies in the greater Toronto area; Excell IT provides a full-range of managed IT services including network design, security, maintenance, internet communications and technical support. They offer customers one-stop shopping including fixed monthly “no surprise” pricing.

The Toronto Construction Association was founded in February 1867 by a group of 58 Canadian construction industry executives. The association's mandate is to promote the highest possible standards of professionalism in an industry characterized by stiff competition and often razor thin margins.
